Matt launched into the lighting industry in the most fascinating of ways: armed with a degree in Dramatic Art Technical Production from NIDA, he worked for nearly a decade in theatrical lighting in Australia and the UK.

Settling home on the North Shore, Matt went on to complete a Master of Illumination at the University of Sydney in 1996. He returned to the Faculty of Architecture in subsequent years to lecture Lighting Design Software to a new generation of Master's students, and rounded his academic qualifications out with a 2001 postgraduate qualification in business from the Macquarie Graduate School of Management.

Qualifications in hand, Matt went on to work for a number of different commercial lighting organisations, taking on roles in both sales and technical support. He was involved with the lighting design of several award-winning projects for Webb Australia and Haron Robson Lightmatters, and became a Member of the Illuminating Engineering Society (MIES).

Matt joined ERCO in 2018 as Technical Manager, providing technical support to lighting consultants, engineers and architects, and ERCO Oceania Channel Partners and Cluster Managers. Matt manages the Sydney Studio client services team which is responsible for scheduling and delivering workshops, project coordination and the region's marketing and administration functions.
